

TELL ME A STORY!

At Divine Inspiration we are always looking for ways in which we might inspire others to explore our church buildings. We know that they have so much to offer!

We have been encouraged by the Radio 4 series 'A History of the World in 100 Objects' that aims to tell humanity's history through the objects we have made. We feel sure that there are engaging stories to tell about places, events, artefacts and people that have impacted on the way our societies have changed. Churches, as places at the centre of communities, are often the guardians of these stories.

We want to collect a variety of examples that reflect and celebrate the diversity of church buildings in our Diocese. We hope we can tell these stories of people who have been 'movers and shapers', of craftsmanship, artefacts or events that have shaped the history of our communities over the centuries right up to the present day.

We aren't sure at this stage what it will be called – at the moment we're calling it 'Tell me a story', but do let us know if you have any suggestions. It will be showcased on our Divine Inspiration website and will hopefully form a Volume 2 to the successful Pocketful of Peace booklet that we published late in 2009.

You can help at this early stage by making some brief suggestions below:
